PRESIDENT TRUESDALE MAKES EXTENDED STAY.

One of the Results of His Visit Is a Decision to Improve the Mining Facilities That There May Be a Big Output for the Winter Trade. Round House to Be Rebuilt-Car Service Men in Convention-Lackawanna Trainmen Continue in Session-Other Notes.

President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna railroad, spent another day it and around the city yesterday, making a tour of the mines in District Superintendent Phillips' district, yesterday afternoon. A number of im-provements which have been made since his last visit were examined and approved, and others contemplated vere pointed out to him by Superintendent Loomis. A heavy traffic in coal is expected during the coming winter, and the company is desirous of being in shape to handle it without delay, and with that end in view the improvements necessary in and around the mines will be made without unnecessary de-

General Passenger Agent T. W. Lee of the Lackawanna railroad, is also making a four over the road, and stirring up things in general. He arrived in Scranton on Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by his wife, and spent the night at the Jermyn. Early yesterday morning he journeyed down the Bloomsburg division as far as Bloomsburg, and on his return at noon held a conference with General Superintendent T. E. Clarke. Later in the day he went west, stopping at Binghamton, Syracuse, Utica and Buffalo. He says that the Pan-American business is now picking up and this fact is evidenced by Tuesday's business out of this city alone, wher one hundred and eighteen 6-day and forty-six 10-day tickets were sold, none of which were to any special excursion parties.

Car Service Association.

A meeting of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Car Service association was held yesterday at the office of A. G. Thomason, in the Traders' Bank building, at which there were present M. B. Casey, superintendent of car service, Lackawanna railroad: 4. H. Shepard, superintendent of the Bangor and Portland division, Lackawanna railof the New York division of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad; F. E. Central Railroad of New Jersey; P. O. Cole, Lehigh Valley railroad, and W. S. McCaleb, of the Pennsylvania rails

The meeting was one of the usual monthly meetings which are held by the association for the purpose of talking over matters of interest to the various railroads represented, and several minor matters were discussed and acted upon. Nothing was done of public interest, however, and the meeting was adjourned early. Dinner was enjoyed at the Jermyn, and a majority of the members left for their meeting, President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, made the following interesting caluculations: "The agreement reached between the men and the operators in 1900 amounted to an increase of $25,000,000 for 00,000 men, secured at an expenditure of $300,000, which is a bigger dividend than the Standard Oil company or the Morgan Banking company ever paid. At the April convention, at an expen-diture of $5,000, concessions were granted amounting to an increase of $7,000,000 annually." He advised the men to stand firm and requested them to see that the education of their children was not neglected.

Still in Session.

The executive committee of th Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, of the Lackawanna system, was in session all day yesterday, but positively refused to give out any statement regarding the work being done. "We have absolutely nothing to give out or publication," he declared. we have done nothing in the matter of electing officers and will probably be in session for some days yet."

PARENTS ASK DAMAGES IN THE SUM OF $10,000.

Scranton Coal Company Made Defendant in a Trespass Suit by Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore Jones, Whose Boy, Daniel, Was Killed at the Capouse Colliery, by Being Crushed in the Breaker Machinery—Injunction Case of Bassick Scranton Coal Company Made Deery-Injunction Case of Rarrick vs. Warren-Ehret Company.

An action for $10,000 damages was instituted yesterday against the Scranton Coal company, by Whitemore Jones and his wife, Elizabeth, whose boy Daniel, was killed at the Capouse colliery Jan. 7 last, by being dragged into the machinery of the breaker and crushed to death.

The plaintiffs represent that the boy was hired as a slate picker, but after a time was put at cleaning the chains which pass over the cogs propelling a cuim belt-conveyor. This was a more hazardous and dangerous occupation than that for which he was engaged, it is alleged, and on this account and the further fact, as alleged, that the boy was not properly instructed as to the dangers of the new work, the company was gullty of negligence, and consequently liable for damages.

I. H. Burns and O'Brien & Martin represent the plaintiff's

Alspaugh Against Reynolds.

Following is the opinion of Judge Kelly, discharging the rule for a new trial in the much-discussed and com-plicated case of William Alspaugh against Namey Reynolds:

This is an action of ejectment brought to recover a lot of land in the Fourth ward of the city of Scranton, which may be briefly described as lot No. 15 in block 13, of the Swetland estate. From the briefs of title filed by the parties and the evidence, it appears that George Alspaugh, the This is an action of ejectment brought to recover a lot of land in the Fourth ward of the city of Scranton, which may be briefly described as lot No. 15 in block 13, of the Swetland estate. From the briefs of title filed by the parties and the evidence, it appears that George Alspaugh, the father of the plaintiff, obtained the equitable title to the lot in question from the executors of William Swetland by articles of agreement dated Oct. 6, 1870. Afterwards a judgment was recovered against him by Howell & Warnke to No. 89, September Term, 1873, in the Mayor's court of Scranton upon which an execution was issued and his interest sold to E. L. Riggs at Marshall's sale on May 22, 1876. On July 30 of the same year E. L. Riggs obtained a deed from the executors of the Swetland estate conveying to him this lot subject to the contract already mentioned, and he thus became the absolute owner of the land in fee. On Nov. 2, 1877, E. L. Riggs conveyed by deed to Elias Palmer, and the title passed from Elias Palmer by a deed, in the operation of the intestate laws, to the defendant.

The plaintiff claims title under a sheaffy.

The plaintiff claims title under a sheriff's sale of the lot, which took place on June II, 1881, by virtue of a lev. fa. issued on a judgment entered on a sct. fa. and alias sct. fa. sur tax lien entered against E. L. Riggs for city and school taxes assessed against ions for her annual floral fete, which cours September 4, 5 and 6, and no the property for the years 1877, expense is being spared to make the and 1879. At this sheriff's sale coming occasion excel all others, although people who witnessed the fete last year thought it almost impossible quired by virtue of it, by divers conto surpass it. King Rex, who was the central figure in the New Orleans Mardi Gras, is now at Saratoga superintending the preparations. On his rip north be was attended by one hundred courtiers and scores of pretty makes. For the purpose of determining this cate the New Orleans Mardi Gras fete question we will assume that the taxes were assessed against the lot for the years 1877, 1878 and 1879, in the name of E. L. Riggs; that none of them were ever paid; that a municipal lien was duly entered; that a scire facias all the knights and ladies who have made the New Orleans Mardi Gras the by posting a copy of the writ upon he premises, and nihil as to E. now propose to make the Saratoga Riggs: an alias sci. fa. issued, re-floral fete the ninth. Maloney, to whom a deed regularly acknowledged in open court was delivered. Prima facte this sheriff's sale would convey a good

> led to recover.
> The defendant, bowever, alleges that notwithstanding all this, the sheriff's sale was void and of no effect because the same lot was assessed to other words, that there was a double assessment, one against E. L. Riggs and one against George Alspaugh, and that having paid the taxes assessed against the latter all the proceedings for the collection of other taxes aswas assessed to George Alspaugh for itle, and the plaintiff would be enti-

so found, the verdict should be for the defendant.

After reviewing the proceedings at the trial we are satisfied that no error was committed in the admission of the evidence, and that there was sufficient to sustain the finding of the jury. Nor have we been persuaded that our ruling at the trial that the assessment of the property to Alspaugh and the payment of the taxes so assessed would vitiate the subsequent proceedings for the collection of the taxes to Riggs was erroneous. A municipality has the right to assess all lands within its boundaries for the payment of its taxes, but it has no right to collect more than one tax for any one year. The design of the numerous acts of assembly with reference to the collection of taxes is to enforce payment, and when payment is made all that the legislature intended has been accomplished. Delaney vs. Galt. 30 Pa. 68. The jury having found that the property in question in this case was assessed to George Alspaugh for the same years that it was assessed to E. L. The principle is laid down in Black on Tax Title. 2nd 1d., sec. 105, that, "Land having been assessed for the same year to two different persons, by one of whom the taxes were paid, the state acquires no title by a forfeiture for non-payment of taxes levied on the for non-payment of taxes levied on the other assessment, and can transfer none, although the unpaid taxes were assessed against the holder of the record title, and the person by whom the taxes were paid had no record title, and was not in fact the owner." The plaintiff contends that the judg-

the defendant; that even if the taxes for which judgment was entered had in fact been paid it would not be com-petent to set up that fact in this pro-ceeding. This would be undoubtedly true if the defendant had been a party to the proceedings on the sci. fa. Cad-mus vs. Jackson, 52 Pa. 304. But the defendant was not a party to these proceedings; she was not served either actually or constructively, but was an entire stranger to them. Under such circumstances she has the right to interpose her defense in this action under the authority of Delaney vs. Gait, supra, and the authorities cited by Mr. Justice Strong in that case. Thompson, M. H. Kerwin, W. H. Wood, Bert Harding, Miss Pitt, Mrs. George Powers, Mrs. Delmond and other ocupants of the boarding house, told in detail of the nauscating odors permeating the boarding house, and which in their opinion based on investigation, came from the defendant company's shop.

The company's defense is that the odors complained off came from a soft coal forge used in an adjacent manufacturing establishment.

Judge Carpenter took the papers, reserving his decision. The plaintiff was represented by E. C. Newcomb and
